Internet Safety Curriculum

The Internet, e-mail, and other digital devices such as cell phones, iPods, and PDAs, have become popular tools for communicating in today's world. It is common for our students to use these devices to text their friends, chat online, and play games with others in their online gaming communities.

The anonymous environment of the Internet is an area of the utmost concern.

Unfortunately the same advances in computer and telecommunication technology that allow our children to reach out to new sources of knowledge and educational experiences are also leaving them vulnerable to exploitation and harm by online predators. Just as we teach our students to be responsible citizens in the classroom, school, and community, it is important to teach them to act responsibly on the Internet.

Although the state of Illinois mandates that Internet safety is taught in grades 3 and up, the Kinnikinnick School District believes there are basic safety principles that need to be in place beginning at the primary level (K-2). Therefore, a comprehensive K-8 Internet Safety curriculum has been developed which includes objectives for personal safety.

While these objectives may be taught at any time throughout the school year, the Kinnikinnick School District has designated APRIL as Internet Safety Awareness month.

A sincere thank you goes out to Chad Etnyre (Stone Creek), Amy Lewis(Kinnikinnick), Ann Molitor (Ledgewood) and Marissa Montalbano (Roscoe Middle) for their contributions to this document.
